Frame of

From the time we entered kindergarten, we have been traveling along a path marked at times by uncertainty and confusion. We began with a vague destination, a number, unclear in the distance which bound us all together. As we continued along the path to our destination, still unsure exactly where we were headed, certain events and emotions guided us along the trail. As we neared this mysterious number which somehow seemed to lure us by its magnetism, an indistinguishable sense of pride, spirit, and belonging, we no longer needed to be guided. The closer we came to our fate which was becoming ever clearer in the shortening distance, we began to guide ourselves along this path.

For the freshmen, the journey continues. The enigma of the future remains unclear. They have not yet come to fully understand the incredible significance and power of the number by which they are represented.

For the sophomores, the trail is clearer although it has not yet been fully defined. They have reached a curve in the path. They have begun to feel the strength of the bond which was established so long ago.

For the juniors, the destination is clear. They are on the straightaway held back only by time. The number stands lucid yet intangible in the nearing horizon.

For the seniors, this journey has ended. They, bound by the spirit and pride of their number, have reached their destination. For they have arrived at their Frame of Reference, their destination, their number — 1994.

Now, each member of the class of 1994 will set out to blaze a new path. Beginning, as before, unclear and unsure. However, they will always look back and clearly see the large, welcoming 1994 and feel guided by that very same pride, spirit and belonging.

GOOD LUCK CLASS OF 1994!

Best Wishes,

Chrissie and Nicole

Senior year is full of traditions. Somewhere between the picture taking and the actual graduation day falls a famed tradition: the senior breakfast. Each year, on the morning of their final first day of school at WHS, the seniors venture out earlier than normal to gather for breakfast before they make their big debut at the school.

The class of '94, somewhat altered part of the tradition we know as "Senior Breakfast." In past years most classes have gone to Abdow's Big Boy for a breakfast buffet of just a simple cup of coffee. The class of '94, however, ate at the Atrium Deli, located in Downtown Crossing.

The decision was not a mistake. The class enjoyed their quick breakfast as they milled around, anticipating the day (and year) to follow. Many seniors didn't even eat, but most made confetti or discussed the details of the infamous entrance into the school just minutes away. Others were not phased by the fact that they were the mighty seniors, and sulked over the fact that their long, fun-filled summer had come to a close and the books would soon be opened again.

Whatever the case, a great majority of the class of '94 showed their spirit by being involved in the tradition of Senior breakfast. Cheering and putting banners up has satisfied the spirited feeling of seniors in past years, but this was not the case for the class of '94. The class showed up on the first day sporting florescent green, pink and yellow tie-dye t-shirts, customized by each person. The Sunday before school started, the entire class of '94 gathered at Abbie Smith's house to create these fine artistic tees. The effort had really began days before when the seniors began buying their t-shirts, spray paint, dye, and sheets to prepare. Although some were inexperienced at the task of tie-dying, all the shirts came out with a style unique to the creator. Although no two shirts were alike, the general uniformity of the grade showed their great degree of spirit, and unity.

This is the Time

Our Junior Prom — the long awaited event had finally come. Discussion over the "big day" began at the end of sophomore year. The class of '94's prom destination was finally decided to be at the Westboro Marriott. Many moaned and groaned that it was too close and worthless to bother with a limo. Despite this minor complaint, as soon as January rolled around, people began finding the "right" date. Girls rushed off to find the "perfect" dress and make their hair and nail appointments, while the guys waited until the last minute to pick out their tuxes and corsages.

On April 2, 1993, at approximately 11:06 A.M., the junior class happily departed the high school to get ready for the long awaited night. The parents all became camera happy as they took rolls and rolls of film and gushed at how beautiful everyone looked. As soon as we were able to sneak out, we packed into our limos or cars and headed off to the Marriott.

Despite the fact that the prom was in Westboro, promgoers were impressed with the room, food and how big the dance floor actually was. The dancing started off slowly but by the end of the night, high heels and tux jackets were strewn across the room. As the d.j. played our prom song "This is the Time", the queen, Kim Roy, and her court were announced. When the dancing came to an end and the prom was over, everyone knew that the night had only just begun.

Everybody headed off to people's houses, prepared to stay up for all-nighters but the crack of dawn came sooner than expected. People began their weekend adventures, despite the rainy weather. Some went to Martha's Vineyard, New Hampshire, Boston, or spent a relaxing day at home. When Monday rolled around we were all tired but excited from our weekend of partying and fun, our minds full of memories that we'll never forget.

The Big Splash!

Buckets, soap, balloons, clowns, brownies, cookies and lots of water. No, this is not your typical summer party in Westborough, but rather the annual yearbook car wash.

It was a beautiful June morning as we gathered together to wash cars, sell baked goods and find new ways to repeatedly soak each other. Our colorful clowns, Tiffany Glasier and Sam Hendricks, came close to killing the people of Westborough with a supersoaker and their frantic screaming and banner-waving in the street.

Back in the parking lot the rest of us sprayed and washed cars, occasionally nibbling on chocolate chip cookies. A surprising amount of staff showed up, which made it possible for several people to scrub cars, take turns at the baked goods table, do cartwheels in the street (thanks Brian) and fight for hose control.

As for our devoted advisor, Mr. Kaplan, he attempted to keep an eye on our crazy behavior while having conversations with the customers. Later we surprised Mr. Kaplan with a cold spray of water, and being a good sport, he took it with a defeated smile.

By the early afternoon we were all soapy, wet, and sunburned. The customers seemed to have fun watching us work hard, and it was worth it when we saw the profit that we had made. Sure, a few customers couldn't understand the concept of parking their cars at an angle, and some even told us our dessert prices were too LOW, but the yearbook carwash once again proved to be a great fundraiser, and we had a lot of fun in the process.

A WHOLE NEW LOOK

JUNIORS LOOK AT FIRST DAY 93-94

While the Seniors were out gallivanting at the traditional Senior Breakfast, the rest of us dragged our feet through the doorway to start yet another year at W.H.S.

If you happened to be coming through the door after the seniors had arrived, chances are that you were bombarded by the handfuls of confetti and streamers they tossed over the balcony.

The juniors, on the other hand, waited until the last minute to make their appearance (car keys in hand) as upperclassmen. Pushing their way through the hoards of freshmen overcrowding the hallways, they noticed the sophomores running into school so as not to be seen disembarking from the big yellow "limos".

It was the typical first day of school; freshman trying to find the fourth floor, sophomores trying to establish themselves as semi-upperclassmen, and juniors living up to their dominating status.

We fell into the routine of being back in school, and for the lucky few who found a seat during second lunch, congratulations. Aside from the two freshmen drowning in the pool, the day was a complete success.

▼Bryan Bannon donns his kinky kerchief.

In keeping with tradition, Competition Day was held the day before April vacation. Classmates cheered for their respective teams, hoping for a victory. They all knew that winning would mean pride and prestige for their class.

One of the events involved scootering across the gym while balancing a spoon with a golf ball in it — in the person's mouth. The wipeouts and collisions in this event made it more fun to watch than to participate in.

Another event was rolling tennis balls towards a blindfolded teammate who then had to get them into a trashbarrel at his or her feet. The Juniors won this event mainly because nobody noticed Bryan Bannon cheating.

The main event called for both brains and brawn. The teams were required to stack mats to see who could get theirs the highest. Most of the teams didn't even get the mats to balance.

The winning team of Competition Day was of course the Seniors. Their experience and savvy, not to mention a little help from the teachers helped them achieve victory.

Powderpuff

all in good fun!

The Junior Side

Our banners were right. We are the Champs! Yeah, Yeah!

This year, the juniors won the powderpuff game with an 8-7 victory. Aside from our football skills, we also presided over the seniors in spirit and unity. Sarah Hawkins hosted our pppp (powderpuff pasta party) where we made banners, headbands, and t-shirts. We even blew a fuse!

The rivalry hadn't quite built up until the day of the game when a few juniors tore down the '94 banner from the school parking lot on the way to Friendly's. This began a day of torn banners and foreshadowed some of the roughness the game would bring.

At 2:00 the juniors, not disheartened by the rainy weather, took the muddy field cheering and ready to play. Erin Megin and Amanda Young, our two quarterbacks, equally contributed to the victory. But it was Erin's touchdown and successful TWO point conversion that put us on top. And of course we can't forget Coach Doherty, the man who prepared us for victory. And the cute cheerleaders who entertained all of the players and the parents that braved the rain.

There are a couple of details that we are trying to forget. Like Erin Megin's first touchdown that Mr. Federici "didn't see", or the ridiculous controversy that a two-point conversion is only worth one point (why then, isn't it called a one-point conversion?). But overall, the powderpuff game was a spirited fundraiser, a memorable experience, (especially for the players), and a good way to bring the class of '95 together.

The Senior Side

As November came, we all knew it was that time again: time for the annual Powderpuff game! After last year's grueling battle, we weren't even sure they would let us have a game this year. But that was all forgotten and soon the teams were picked. We were coached by Mr. Rainey, and began to practice in preparation for the big game. The day before the game we all went to Michelle Diehl's house to make our spirited and colorful banners. We decided that it would be best to have a positive attitude about the whole thing — so both classes could remain friends.

However, on the day of the game our "nice" attitude quickly changed when, in quite an obnoxious manner, the juniors took our '94 banner off the fence. They then proceeded to tear down another one of our banners that hung on the balcony. We now knew that the game was going to be a tough battle, not to mention the fact that one of the referees just happened to be the class advisor for the class of '95 (favoritism?). We didn't want to complain, but thought that the game should start out completely fair!

Despite all that had gone on that day, we were all ready to play and didn't let the rainy weather dampen our spirits. Both teams went out screaming and cheering and played an intense game of flag football. Despite some unfair calls and an overly aggressive junior team who took the game way too seriously, both teams had a lot of fun. Even though the class of '95 won the game (by a two point conversion) the class of '94 most definitely won the awards for unity, spirit, and good sportsmanship, for a game that was meant purely for fun. And in the end

"We don't care 'cause, we outta here!"

A Jolly Good Time

As the snow fell from the sky on February 12, 1993, 14 students and two teachers braved the weather to begin their journey to England. Cameras and luggage in hand, we boarded the bus to Logan Airport, wondering if this trip was destined to go the way of the Donner Party. Our plane managed to get off the ground, and six hours later, we touched down at London's Heathrow Airport. Our nine day adventure had begun.

We arrived at our Hotel in Russell Square, got our rooms, quickly unpacked, and . . . slept. After recovering from jet lag the next day, we were ready to roll. From that point on our days were filled with continuous tours, shopping, and bus rides.

With help from our tour guide, Nick, and our bus driver, Peter, we saw Stonehenge (not as spooky as in the time-life books), the beautiful city of Bath, Stratford-upon-Avon, Shakespeare's house, Oxford, and learned a plethora of English facts. On our own we saw the Tate museum and Sir John Sloane's house. We even managed to see the Tower of London, after an eventful boat ride that almost turned into adventure's on Gilligan's island.

Our trip was not all sightseeing, however, we shopped at Camden town, and Piccadilly Circus. We also experienced English cuisine, and wondered, "Does everything come with peas and carrots?" As faor the night life, when we weren't seeing plays such as Buddy, Two Gentlemen of Verona, and Cyrano de Bergerac, we explored London via the "tube" (how many times did we lose our tickets?). One evening a few of us had an interesting adventure at a disco.

All in all, the trip was wonderful, and I'm sure none of us will ever forget the great times we had, and the people we met (Niles!). Thank you Lissi, Lisa, Sarah, Kelly, Meredith, Sharyn, Muffy, Matt, Tim, Coley, Tyson, Kate, Matt, and most of all Mrs. Morrel and Mrs. Leahy, for making it such a great time.

We arrived at Logan 3 hours before take off, with just enough time for Abbie to spill her Coke all over Kim. After an overnight flight we landed in Paris on Sunday April 18th and were greeted by our courier Libby. We dropped our suitcases off at the Hotel Versailles (with rooms the size of shoeboxes) and met the Maine students. During our 3 days in Paris we went sightseeing, shopping, some of us were chased by strange men on the Champs-Elysees, encountered pickpockeeters at Sacre Coeur, felt a little sick at Marie Antoinette's garden, slept on the bus, and dined at the famous Chez Dou Dou's.

On Wednesday we boarded the TGV and sped our way to Nimes. We visited Avignon, the Pont du Gard, which thanks to Cristina, the efficient rock breaker, we were able to take home pieces of. We spent the night at the Hotel Nimea where the 4th floor had the chance to experience Italian culture first hand.

The next day we hopped on the bus with Franc the driver and headed for Nice. We made a few sidetrips, once, — to the dollmaker, where Woodsy once again astounded us with her vast knowledge of France.

Once at Nice we enjoyed the Mediterranean weather, (some more than others) at the topless beaches, had some fun (!?!) at the disco, and ate crepes at two in the morning. Thanks to Libby and Franc, we couldn't have survived without them! Thanks for everything Mr. and Mrs. Gravel!

Come one, Come all to the Holiday Ball

Westboro High School brought in the holidays with the traditional Holiday Ball. Once again there were people running to the door to flee the rain. Christmas tree and dazzling tinsel enhanced the holiday spirit. Everyone danced under the shimmering gold stars hanging from the ceiling. The decorations this year even included a life sized dradel thanks to Meredith Gore and Jason Szatmary.

All night, festive bullgoers were boppin' to the music from DJ Johnny D's sound system. Everyone sang along to the music and even made up their own verses. Everyone including our liberated 'Swinging Singles' (many of the girls this year took charge and went stag) had a great time.

The highlight of the evening was a debut made by Mr. Federici. Mr. Federici on the second floor balcony, with the spotlight on him, began to boogy down with Brian Fisher.

The memorable evening finally wound down with a few slow songs at around eleven o'clock. With the last spin of the record and twirl of a skirt, the doors closed on another Westborough High School Holiday Ball.

CURRENT EVENTS:
No News is Good News with Gary Gnus!

The news of the summer and school year was often bleak. Disaster and conflict topped the headlines. It would have been easy to become worried about our future due to the depressing stories. Teenagers realized more than ever the need to stay positive and to become involved in affairs.

The familiar names in the news were mostly there for the wrong reasons. Reggie Lewis died; Michael Jordan retired; Senator Bob Packwood disgraced himself; Beavis and Butthead corrupted us; Michael Jackson was accused of abuse; the attack on Nancy Kerrigan and Tonya Harding's involvement shocked everyone; and there was that thing with the Bobbitts . . .

Across the nation there was natural disaster. The Midwest flooded, destroying many homes and crops. Hundreds of houses burned in California's wildfires. Then, Los Angeles was rocked by a 6.6. magnitude earthquake. Almost fifty people died, while tens of thousands were left homeless.

The major issues that dominated the news were the economy, healthcare, and the rise in violent crime. The economy seemed to improve, while the debate continued on healthcare. Violence worried many as it became more prevalent and as it spread into the suburbs. A recent study revealed that one-third of all Massachusetts students go to school with a weapon. Other issues such as abortion, AIDS, and U.S. foreign policy also shared people's concerns.

The news of a the international scene was mostly of chaos. A military government in Haiti worsened already poor conditions. The warlords in Somalia created starvation which led to U.N intervention. There was a seeming reversal of Russia's democractic movement. Civil war in what was once Yugoslavia brought terrible atrocities. One bright spot was the peace accord between Israel and the PLO which gave hope to peace in the Middle East.

Closer to home the news was good. Our small town sent two athletes — Jim Campbell, for hockey, and Nikki Stone, a freestyle skier — to the Winter Olympics in Lilleheimmer. Coach LaDuke won his 300th game. A new police chief was sworn in. The month of January brought three snowstorms in one week and several days of record cold.

Today's world fills the newspapers with many tragic stories everyday. Many people don't even listen to the news, because they can't handle the depressing state of things. The problem with this solution is that whether you listen to the news or not, tragedy will happen, so the only thing to do is remember the good things in life.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENTS

HOME AWAY FROM HOME

For an entire year they left their family, friends and familiar places so they could travel to another part of the globe and see more of the world. They came from all over the world. Leonor Fernandez, 18, from Caracas, Venezuela, Jean-Marc Hanssens, 18, from Brussels, Belgium, Felix Treptow, 17, from Essen, Germany and Zsolt Levay, 18, from Budapest, Hungary. Culture soup!

Leonor Fernandez,

"I was involved with AFS (American Field Service) for many years before coming to the U.S. I had worked for AFS for two years and one day I decided I wanted to travel to another country. They told me I could go to the United States. It was a big surprise because I hadn't expected to come to the U.S. or Westborough. In the beginning it was difficult because of the big change. There were different customs, traditions, new friends and more importantly, a new family. I could say nice things all day about the Thorntons. They opened their hearts and their lives to make me feel comfortable and part of the family.

Another thing that made me feel welcome was my friends. The new friends in school and, of course, the other foreign exchange students; Jim, Felix, and Zsolt. All the kids in school helped me whenever I needed help, trying to make me enjoy my year here. It will be hard to leave, not knowing when I will see all my friends again. I don't know when but I promise, someday, I will come back.

In general, the United States is pretty different from Venezuela, especially the weather. I hadn't seen snow before and I thought it was great, even though some people were laughing at me, marveling at the snow. In Westborough, I could see four seasons, something I couldn't see in Venezuela. Coming to Westborough also gave me the chance to see my AFS sister, Emily, from two years ago. I didn't know if I would be able to see her when she left Venezuela. Then I came here and saw her one weekend. We had a wonderful time together.

I want to say thank you to my family at home because they gave me the opportunity to come here and have this wonderful experience. Querida familia, Los quiero muchisimo y nunca me alcanzaran las palabras para agradecerle el hecho de que yo este aqui.

Mom, Dad, Cissie and Annemarie, thank you, I will never forget you. I love you."

Jean-Marc Hanssens,

"First I would like to say that I am very lucky to have the chance to travel. Travelling is a wonderful thing, it gives you chance to learn about other cultures, mentalities, and people. It helps you realize that you are not alone in the world. It's amazing to see that everywhere on the planet, groups of people have learned to live in a specific, ethical way, mostly independent from each other. No one should forget that, under all the social, historical and geographical differences that separate us, we all have some basic and unchangeable characteristic that unifies us.

If you ever have the opportunity to travel, grab your chance; it's worthwhile. What I admire most about the U.S. is the way people organize their lives and themselves. There is a rule or a law for everything, and no waste of time. Although it takes some creativity away from life, I'm sure technological and economical standard.

I can't forget to thank my family and all the people who contributed to my wonderful exchange experience. In school, on the soccer team, at parties, everywhere I went I met great people who were interested in changing a bit of their own knowledge by getting to know someone from another culture. Thank you very much, you helped build a piece of my year."

"Thank you to my family and all my friends here who helped make my year a good one. I had a great time."

Zsolt Levay,

"I came here because I wanted to become fluent in English, to see a different culture and also to have a good time. I got so much more out of it than just that. The new friends I made and the experiences were great. I loved playing indoor soccer with the guys from school. I really enjoyed the family I stayed with, the people who were so friendly, and the different culture. I do miss some of the things from home like the pubs and the freedom in the schools. Here there are many rules. Even with that I would do it again. I would come back, but to a different part of the country to see the different things there, because the U.S. has such a great variety and there is so much to see."

All the students had nothing but nice things to say about their experiences. They enjoyed the families they stayed with very much and found the kids in town to be friendly and helpful. Let's hope that after they leave that maybe we may see them again one day, maybe we'll go there next time.

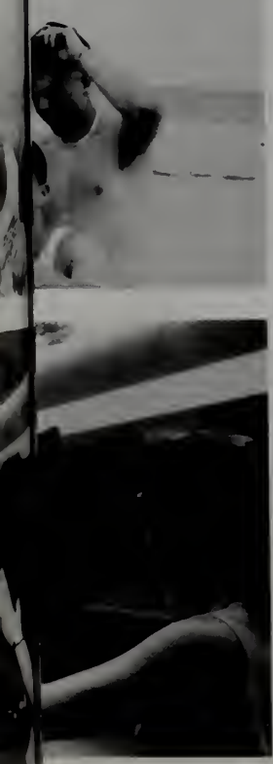
The weather was warm, the sky was blue, and we still had two weeks left of school. With the class of 1993 gone, we were on top and heading to so something to show the school that we had the power. So one day in June over half of the junior class spent a day in the great outdoors.

Some of the class went to Hampton Beach to soak up the rays and walk along the boardwalk. Other skippers headed to the Milford Quarries to swim in the deep fresh water and lounge around. A third group caravaned down to Riverside Amusement Park for a day of cotton candy, riding the Slingshot, the Cyclone, and other stomach-turning rides.

All in all, whether at the beach or getting sick on the Rotto, the day was well spent. It sure beat spending the day snoozing through classes. The Class of 1994 made a definite statement — WE HAD ARRIVED!!!

Tory Temple

◀Everyone gathers around the midget they found at the beach.



▲Tiffany and Tara show us their new synchronized swimming moves.

Cristina Paquette, Jaime Pasqualietti, Kerry McDowell — the girls with style!

▶Rich Topping shows everyone who really wears the pants in the family.

SECRET SANTA

The class of 1994 followed traditions by volunteering to suffer embarrassment and humiliation in the name of the holiday spirit. This year's Secret Santa was as crazy as ever, despite conflicts between students and teachers over minor details. In the past Secret Santa has taken place the week before Christmas break. Because of previous problems in the years before, it was supposed to be two days, but after several trips to the office and a final visit with Mrs. Zolubos the schedule was set for three days.

A few of the more memorable performances included: the Bunny Hop by Mike Condon and a special presentation of the Nutcracker Suite courtesy of Mike Board.

For the enjoyment of the younger viewers (Freshmen) we were entertained by Barney (Alyssa Peltzmen) and Mr. Rodgers (Aubrey Errington), a surprise visit from Frosty the Snowman (Jen Hinson) and Kermit the Frog (Kerry McDowell) made the program complete.

Anne Harris did a lovely rendition of "I saw Mommy kissing Santa Claus" and Jim Hanson sang "Le Petit Papa Noel." Dale Morgan and Keith Abrams let us in on their idea of traditional "girl talk."

Through all the feminist speeches and cross-dressing, all the controversy and humiliation, a good time was had by all. The class of '94 can definitely say we have revolutionized the art of Secret Santa.

Sharyn Rainey and Hillary Lloyd

▶Luke O'Neil — he's a real prince!!

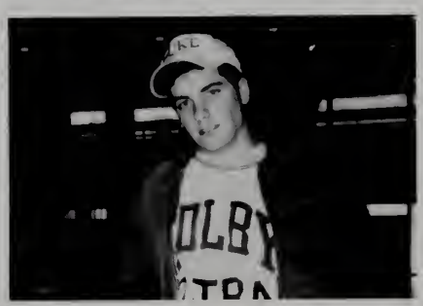
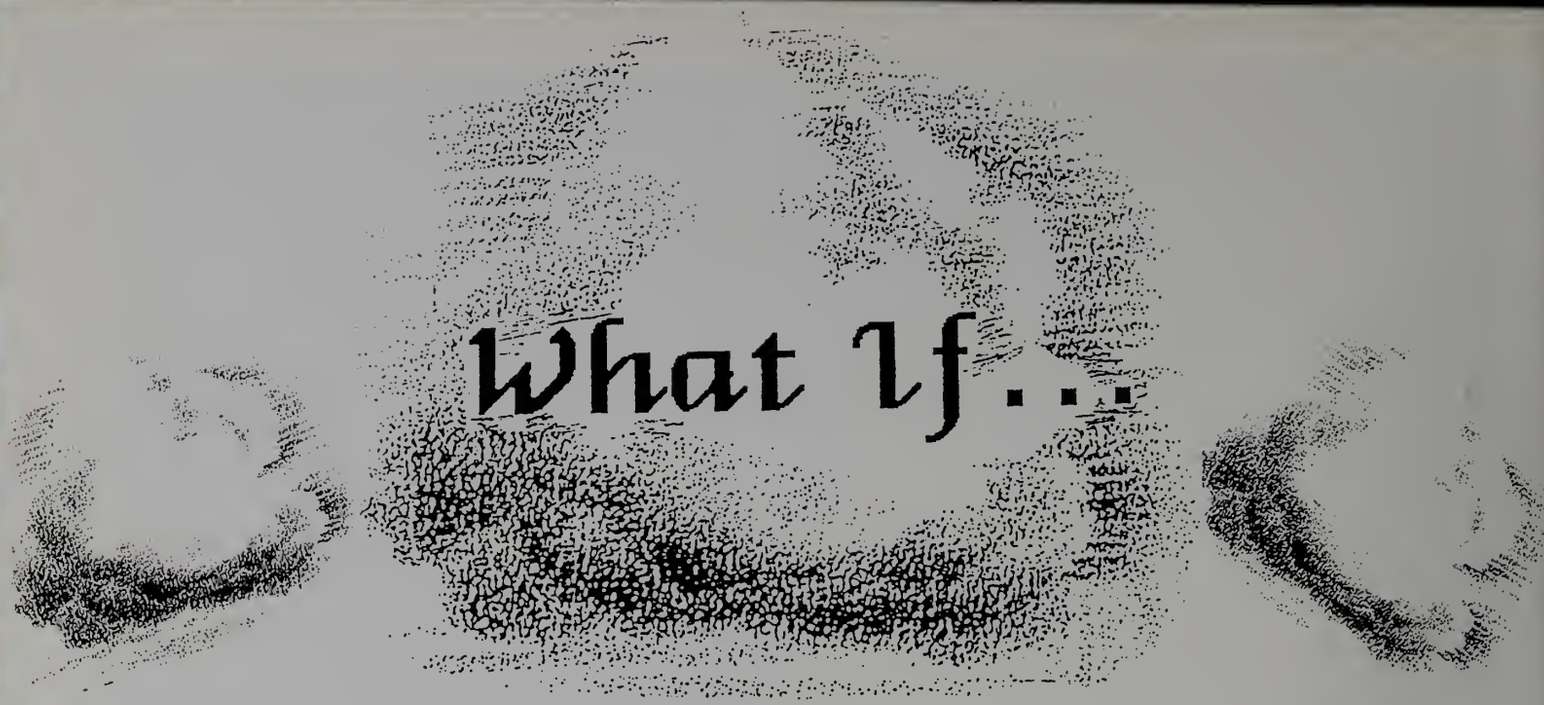
▶Hey, Hey, Hey IT'S PJ!!!!!





Mike Kassatly didn't philosophize about everything?
we ever had a class trip?
Jessica Murray only had black clothes?
Alyssa Peltzman and Jessica Murray didn't work at Dairy Queen?
the class of '93 knew we didn't worship them?
Steve never met Julie!?
we didn't know Dana Ross?
the china didn't serve food?
Matt didn't know how to get to Bancroft Street?
Justin, Matt, and Bryan's parents didn't go away?
Abbie wasn't such a gossip?
It tasted like cherry coke?
Spooky had patience?
Pete Williams didn't hit on every girl in the school?

Traditionally, softball has not been one of the most popular sports at WHS. But, in the last couple of years we've been taken a little more seriously. Girl's softball has accomplished much. Last season, we made history when we defeated our biggest rival, Oakmont, for the first time. We also brought the team to district finals, which has never happened before. Again, we played Oakmont, but ended up losing 7-6 in the last inning. It was hard to lose, but getting there was a major achievement in itself. We plan to come back even stronger this season. This time, Oakmont and Baker are going down!

— See ya on the field.

Last year the Westboro Rangers Baseball team had a lot to live up to. We had been undefeated league champs for the past few years and we wanted to uphold this record. We almost did. During the first half of the year we were pretty much unstoppable. If we lost, it was by our own hands. Anyway we were undefeated in the league with one remaining league game against Hudson. At this time, fate decided to lay its all too finicky finger on us.

Hudson beat us, ending the unbeaten string and tying us for first in the league with Hudson. Our luck then carried us over to the District Tournament Ranking where we had identical records with two other teams. This meant we had to be picked out of a hat for third, fourth, fifth. We got fifth and had to go up against the fourth place team, Worcester Vocational High School. Unfortunately we were eliminated in this first round, but they were a team we should have beaten.

In closing, we had a solid, solid team last year, and we deserved much more than we got. Everyone on the team realized this. Hopefully this year will be the year we get the breaks.

Last year's golf team knew that a good season was in order when they saw their new transportation. In place of the beaten-up old wagon was a comfortable van. No longer would cramped legs be a factor in a match. The van's power proved to be too much for Coach Gebo, though, whose driving style attracted the attention of a police officer (luckily he was in a good mood).

Due to the soggy ground conditions, the golf team didn't start playing until the end of April. Guided by Mike Connors, Matt McCauliffe, and Dale Morgan, they made the most of the time that they had and made it to districts. This year the team promises to have similar success and an equally fun time.

◀Lauren Shultz, it's not a snake pit . . . it's just a sand pit!!!
▼Emily Corey gives it her all while throwing the shotput.

We ran it, we jumped it, we threw it, we put it . . . we lost it! Some people might ask why we did this to ourselves. Day after day, we ran endless miles, perfected sprints and tried to take tenths of seconds off of our times. Was it the sheer desire to win or just pure insanity? Probably a little bit of both.

The girls' spring track season of '93 ran quite smoothly. With Last years sophomore standouts, Alison Bagg running the 880, Kristin Dorhety in the triple jump, Marisa Hanaka running the 220, Kristen Gugleimi running the two mile, and freshman Jenn Metzger running the 440; our team demonstrated outstanding effort and talent throughout the season. Marisa Hanaka, also being named Mid-Wach all star for the 220, made districts along with Kristin Dorhety who competed in the triple jump. Another great athlete we were fortunate enough to have on our team was Ilyse Davis who became notorious in central Ma. for her shot put ability.

Our team would like to thank Coach Hayes for all his support, newcomer Coach Mary Ryan for her work out programs, motivation and assistance; and "Scoopies" for all those days we knew we just couldn't make it through practice.

MEN'S TRACK

The Westborough High School Men's track team had an exciting year. Along with the Seniors, there were also an exciting bunch of Juniors and Sophomores. Leading the Seniors were Jim Doyle and Jeremy Masters. Both Middle distance runners, they contributed many points to the team. Bill Travis, a 330 hurdler, also had a good year, putting more points on the board for the Rangers. The Pole Vaulters, James Guimond and Brian Diesenhaus also had a good year. The Sophomores, Ken Larsh, in the mile, and Rob Gasser, were fierce competitors, and in the sprints gave the Rangers even more points to add to the final score.

The track team, which won about half of their meets, are hoping to improve on that mark this year. The year looks promising with all of the team returning with some younger competitors as well.

▼Reach for the stars, Justine.

Last season, the Westboro Girls Tennis Team had one of its most successful seasons ever, making it to the district finals before losing to #1 seeded Bromfield, in a close 3-2 match.

En route to the finals, #7 seeded Westboro defeated #3 Bartlett 3-2 and #2 powerhouse Notre Dame Academy 3-2 as well with wins from #1 singles player, senior Anissa Prefontaine, #2 singles player, junior Amy Jennings, and #2 doubles players, sophomores Erin Megin and Nazli Parvizi. Although the squad is small, and with just 2 seniors, consisted mainly of underclassmen, Westboro has usually been successful despite playing tough teams such as Algonquin, Groton-Dunstable, and Marlboro. Much of the teams success can be attributed to the positive, enthusiastic coaching of Carolyn Loconto.

▼Is there a John McEnroe in the house?!?!?

Last year we had a great tennis season. Our team consisted of one senior, four juniors, three sophomores, and three freshman, all of whom became close friends. During practice we always had a good time. At our matches we were serious and competitive. We ended the season as league champions and with a record of 14-6. This year, having lost only one member, we should have another successful season.

▼It takes two to stop the powerful Jeff Lusek.

The 1993 Ranger Football Team is one that will be remembered for a very long time. This team won't be remembered for a Super Bowl birth or a Division Championship like their predecessors from the year before. This team will be remembered for their honesty towards their coaches, school, and most of all, themselves. Twenty-three players, practically one third of the squad, were suspended for two games for violating MIAA Chemical Health rules. These players were wrong in what they did, but were grown up and mature enough to deal with the consequences that went with their actions. But even though these players were suspended, they walked away with their integrity, knowing what they did was the right thing to do. This should have been a learning experience for everyone and hopefully something like this will never happen again.

The Rangers, with virtually no experience, ended the season at a 1-9 mark. With only one returning starter and quite possibly the toughest Division 2 schedule in the county, the Rangers were in a tough position. Although the Rangers only victory was a 31-7 decision over the Hudson Hawks, it was a "Magic Moment" that all of us will remember forever. Our final heartbreak came on Thanksgiving Day when we lost after outplaying the Algonquin Tomahawks. However, our team had something more important than a Division Championship. We had an immeasurable friendship which we will remember forever.

FIELD HOCKEY

In the middle of August, we headed to Deerfield Academy for a week of field hockey. Some of us took a little longer to get to camp-Kerry-, but once we arrived our team was united. Out team became Germany — the undefeated champions of Deerfield, but are only reward was a pack of Sweetarts thanks to Pam?!

We had a week off, before Ms. Debish has us running the dreaded mile and 50 yard sprints in the hot sun. All our hard work paid off, since we were 7-0 in the first four weeks of the season. We had impressive wins over rivals Oakmont, Gardner, Quabbin and Nashoba.

Our first loss came when we faced Oakmont again. Obviously Oakmont decided to start practice soccer skills, as the ball was kicked into the net. Two more ties came, but we finished strong and ended up as the top seed in Districts. We beat Milford in the first round and moved on to Gardned at Naragansett. After the extremely long bus ride, we suffered a heart breaking loss when Poirer scored with a few minutes left in the game.

Despite the abrupt end to our season, we finished a strong 14-2-2 and shared many memories and private get togethers.

Starting the week before school, the girls cross country team began to battle the heat during the last days of summer.

The team was once again coached by John Doyle who gave us never ending encouragement, and put up with our many injuries: shin splints, backaches and twisted ankles.

Surprisingly for such a young and inexperienced team, the girls had a good season with some very close losses. Only two runners from last year returned, but with the seven members who ran a good race at the District Meet in Gardner.

The 1993 Cross Country season is a memorable one because it was the start of a team who will be achieving more success throughout the years. What made this team special was each member's attitude to only do her very best.

MEN'S X-COUNTRY

Cross-country is not a sport for the weakminded or faintheart-ed. In fact, it is one of the most rigorous and competitive of all sports. Aggressive, non-stop running (between 2.3 and 3.1 miles) is both mentally and physically challenging to the body. Competition is always encountered at X-C meets and it is the responsibility and determination of each runner to strive to achieve individual success. Team success stems from both individual toughness and, of course, teamwork. Everybody on the team is a valuable and important part in making a season successful.

The 1993 Westborough High School Cross-country team did just this. Led by senior tri-captains Jim Doyle, Jeremy Masters, and Justin Woolacott, the team ended up 4-5. This record really doesn't reflect the team's success. Despite a disappointing start, beginning with a season-long injury to Captain Doyle, the team held on to finish third in districts. Captains Woolacott and Masters provided a strong #2 and #3 for Westborough's harriers. However, the team's backbone was Junior Kenneth Larsh. Larsh was named a District All-Star, Telegram and Gazette All-Star, and a member of the reputable Mike Mahone Top 25. Finishing 3rd in the league meet, 5th in the district meet, and 33rd in the state meet, Ken is looking forward to a spectacular season next year. Sophomores Mahendra Vichare, Peter Billman-Golemme and Brandon Glasier, Juniors Aaron Hero, Bret Young and Rob Gasser, Senior Andrew Simino, as well as many others contributed greatly to the team's success.

The climax of the season came on October 23rd when Westborough grabbed 2nd place in the Wachusett Invitational Meet held at Wachusett Regional High School. Minus Wollacott, several impressive runs from Larsh, Masters, and Vichare secured the 2nd place trophy.

It is of no wonder why the 1993 Cross-country team accomplished so much this past season. Though persistent hard work and determination, the team became an aggressive, unified, and well-spirited group.

▼Captains of Girls Soccer; Nancy Habarta, Sharyn Rainey, and Sally Kircher.

'The 1993-94 Girls Soccer team was the best team Westboro has ever seen. Under the leadership of tri-captains. Nancy Harbarta, Sally Kircher, and Sharyn Rainey the team finished with a 7-8-2 record, which is the best record in Westboro Girls Soccer history. Although they didn't make districts, they deserve the respect and gratitude from everyone for having such a wonderful season. Kristen Doherty was our leading scorer and was aided by fellow offensive players Katie Hopkins, Megan Smith, and Erin Meagan. The defense was very strong with Nancy Nabarta as sweeper and Nicole Uhlman, Sally Kircher, and Marion Culhane as defenders. Sharyn Rainey was at her best as goalie all season. We hope that districts will be coming our way and that the winning spirit of girls soccer remains just as strong next year!

When this year's men's varsity soccer team took to the field, some felt undermanned and woefully unprepared. Having lost 16 seniors to graduation and with only three returning varsity players, (this year's tri-captains, Dale Morgan, Chris Calihan, and Todd Winski,) many did not put much faith in their chances.

Starting 1-5, a single loss away from elimination from districts, the team's future lay in question. From that point on, the team went 8-1-2, to end 9-6-2, finishing second in the league, and qualifying for districts. The season ended with a heartbreaking loss to the eventual State Champions, Shepherd Hill (1-0) in the district quarterfinals.

This years team featured no individual stars. Through hard work and dedication they were able to unite as a team. Three players were selected as both Mid-Wach League, and Central Mass All-Stars. Two were also selected to participate in the Senior Bowl.

This year was one of several firsts:

— the first defeat of Nashoba ever!

— the first time men's soccer finished second in the league in quite some time — the first time men's soccer has gone to districts two years in a row!!!

The team would like to extend its thanks to Coach Allen for his time and dedication, and for being there, not only as a coach, but as a friend. Good luck to next years team, you have a tough act to follow.

▼The cheerleaders start the crowd yelling as the Rangers take the field.

The football cheering team was chosen at the end of last year with captains Amy Spratt and Chaitanya Reddy. The cheerleaders began in July practicing stunts and cheers. In August, a private instructor taught the girls advanced stunts, cheers, and techniques for crowd appeal. The week of double sessions began not long after camp ended. They further perfected their stunting abilities and did their share of conditioning.

Despite the disappointing football record, the cheerleaders never seemed to lose their spirit. The fans, "Munchie" dinners, and of course, the long-lasting tradition of T.P.ing (toilet papering) the senior player's bedrooms made for a tremendous season. This success led the way for a promising basketball season.

Tryouts began again to select the new team for the basketball season. Being inside a gym and cheering for a winning team made the season a fun one. As well as cheering on the guys, the cheerleaders look forward to their upcoming competitions where teams from schools across Massachusetts meet and compete with outstanding routines.

Competition puts a new, unfamiliar twist on cheering. With Coach Karen DeSiata, the experienced upperclassmen and several talented freshmen, more difficult stunts are practiced and performed. The 3-minute routine involves cheers, jumps, stunts, tumbling, and dancing. Competition allows the cheerleaders to capture the spotlight for awhile and to be a winning team, just like any other.

When Coach LaDuke made a guess as to what our record would be this year, he wrote down 10-9. "We don't have much experience, we're not very big, and we're hoping to get better as the season progresses" was his statement at the beginning of the year. When February Vacation ended, however, the Rangers were 18-2. We were also Mid-Wach B league champs, Clark tournament champs, and seeded first in districts. How did it happen? Big Senior contributions and leadership from Brian Stuart, Adam Patten, and Captain Bryan Bannon. However, the leading scorer and rebounder was Matt Paquette, '95. Big contributions also came from juniors Kevin Larsh, Jeremy Hall, and Jarrod Matteson. Juniors Mike Stokes and John Roberts also saw time. The most important thing was that we were a team, everyone working together. What would we be without Doherty, Mc Elroy, and especially Dasaro?

It was a special season. Coach LaDuke got his 300th win, and a few more. With the Clark championship, it's something everyone will remember for a long time.

WESTBOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY
WESTBOROUGH, MA 01581

At the beginning of the Basketball season, my fellow team members and I were instructed to write down our team goals for the year. Most of us shot pretty low, hoping to make Districts or to win the league title. Our coach tried to explain to us that having high goals, such as winning States, would not jinx the team, but would give it something to shoot for. We weren't convinced, but picturing ourselves under the lights at the Centrum definitely gave us something to think about.

Our team had a great desire to win, not only for personal reasons but for the sake of Girl's sports in general. We wanted to prove to the rest of the school that we were more than the weak females bouncing up and down the court, more than the weekly joke in the Lobby Observer. We wanted to fight the blatant sexism that exists in our school and prove that girls' sports are exciting, successful, and deserve equal treatment to boys'.

We began our season by practicing hard, leaving ourselves exhausted at the end of each two-hour session. We always managed to have fun at those grueling practices, and the time spent working together unified us as a team.

The season was about to begin; and we met our first obstacle; our uniforms. Perhaps our school thought the games would be more interesting if the girls wore itty-bitty shorts. At least if the game got boring they could watch our bodies as we hustled up the court in our barely-there shorts. We outsmarted them, though, and before our first game we suggested and were allowed to replace our skin-tight basketball shorts with girls' soccer shorts, which were an improvement but hardly matched the several new pairs of shorts the boys' team had received. We started our season in thin, cheap shorts that flared up at the thigh, although they covered our underwear (Which was more than the original shorts did) and too-tight tank tops. Fortunately, everyone wore shirts underneath, although the author of the Lobby Observer quiz was never spotted at a game.

Our season got off to a slow start, but we soon had a notable record. We were for at least one week in the #1 position in our league. On the day of each game we would all wear the same thing to school, like pajamas or ties or skirts. This was to promote team unity as well as to call attention to ourselves and our games. Our tactics paid off as the season progressed, as we attracted more and more fans to each game.

We continued to practice hard and often, despite numerous scheduling errors and fights over the gym, and we tried every day to improve and prepare for districts. We had a good chance of doing well in the post-season, and we all looked forward to playing in games and each win we came closer to realizing our pipe-dream; States.

The one afternoon in February it all came to an end. There had been an "error in computing eligibility." We were forced to forfeit the games we played against Shrewsbury, Southbridge, Algonquin, Hudson, Quabbin, Oakmont, and Nashoba. All but one of our wins would be obliterated, erased. We were left with nothing to show for our hard work and sacrifice. "Sorry for this major mistake," they said, but their apologies meant nothing to us.

How could they have let this happen? Why didn't they check before the season? How were we supposed to deal with the fact that since they screwed up, we had to suffer?

All of our dreams of States and the Centrum were shattered. There was no mathematical way that we could even qualify for Districts, let alone States. All that we set out to do at the beginning of the season was gone. We had begun to prove them wrong, to prove that we mattered, to prove that girls could actually accomplish things and win, just like boys. All that remained of our season was three games and a tournament, and then we could go home and knit or needlepoint. "Sorry, girls, for this major mistake."

My parents warned me that in life I would be forced to accept the consequences of my own actions. I never knew I would have to suffer for others' mistakes.

This years ice hockey team perform above its expectations. One year after the school tried to cut ice hockey from its athletic program, the team has put together a stellar season. Offensively the team was led by seniors Steve Legg and Mike LeBlanc and sophomore John Campbell. While seniors Justin Woollacott, Mark Hunter and Matt Leverone provided the defense. The future of the team looks bright, as some of the underclassmen, Dan Fisher, Jeremy Frantz, and Brian Lapointe, seem to be just 3 of many players who will be the nucleus of next year's team.

▼An intense moment . . .

This year's gymnastics team was, by far, the most talented and competitive in the past several years. Led by senior captains; Lauren Shultz, Chrissie Hatherley, Meredith Knights, and Hilary Lloyd, the squad of only sixteen members competed with a high level of difficulty and confidence.

The strong determination and spirit of the team was evident in our victory over Hudson in the very first meet of the season. We continued our season with tremendous effort and teamwork. (Remember guys: Teamwork + Effort = Success!) With the dependable strength of Becky Hamon '95 and Erin Lloyd '96, as well as many talented freshmen, we consistently scored around 110 points, a dramatic improvement over years past.

Even though we weren't really able to compete with gymnastics powerhouses, state champs Algonquin and Shrewsbury, no other team could rival the unquenchable spirit and determination of the WHS gymnastics team. Spirit . . . is what we've got!

The 1993/1994 Indoor Track season was one filled with surprises. Our team grew largely, which gave us more depth than in years past and proved to be helpful in our growing number of victories. Another reason for success was the return of Coach David Robinson, who was also successful with the 1991/1992 team. Not only was this year's team one of victory in comparison to years past, but it was also a year of broken records. This year's team broke more Westboro Indoor Track records than the teams from the two previous years combined. Also adding to the team's success, we earned the privilege to compete in the District meet and the State Meet which was held at Harvard's Ivy League facilities. Most importantly, though, this year's team proved that Westboro has what it takes to be a contender and will hopefully continue to be one for years to come.

SCHOOL STORE

Nick Nack Paddy Wack Shack.
Above: The volunteers of the school store and the advisors Mrs. Bellows and Ms. Potosnak.

In December 1993, Westboro High School opened the school store. After a contest was taken to name the store, several names were considered. The most popular name, although too long to use, was The Nick Nack Paddy Wack Shack. To our dismay, the name was shortened to The Nick Nack Shack. For the grand opening, the W.H.S. band came down to play in the cafeteria, and there was a raffle and a momentus cutting of the ribbon.

The school store, organized by Ms. Bellows and Ms. Potosnak, sells a variety of things. During lunch, you can buy candy, hats, pencils, pens, folders, and even sweatshirts. Its popularity has grown and its selection is amazing!

Top: Ms. Zolubos helps Mrs. Dasilva cut the ribbon on the school store.
Middle: John Wiede and Cory Freedman display the inside of "The Shack."
Bottom: Nic Goudas and Valerie Barkey buy candy during lunch.

When we asked the question "What do you think of the school store?" these were the responses:
"It's a good idea, but they're selling the wrong stuff." Felix Treptow
"I think it's great to have so much sugar to get you through the day." Mike Board
"They have to do something about the window." Alissa Pastner
"They need more food like soda, gum, hostess cupcakes, and twinkies" Ellen Shaw and Jessica Halford.
"I've never been." Karen Berry
"You can't see anything." Melanie Hamon
"It's great, I go everyday!" Shana McCullough
"I love Alexander the Grapes!" Chaitanya Reddy
"Two thumbs up!" Siskel and Ebert

STUDENT COUNCIL

"I think I voted for student council . . . Didn't they run the concession stand?" Although the student council isn't the most noticeable organization in the school, they certainly do more things than you think. This year, the president of student council is Mike LeBlanc. Mike, along with his crack staff of concerned students, spearheaded such events as the concession stand at the football games, the blood drive, candy sales on Valentine's Day and other things around the school. Jim Doyle heads all the Vice-Presidential duties. Julie Abrams provided an intricate of the council as the Secretary, while Megan Smith as Treasurer rounds out the officers. The conession stand was the biggest profit maker for the student council where a large portion of the money goes to scholarships for outgoing seniors. Good luck to next year's student council.

In previous years, Model Congress has always researched and prepared a bill to submit in the Model Congress at American International College. This year, due to extenuating circumstances, Westboro was not able to participate. However, even without participating in the Model Congress, the group has had a busy and productive year.

We have actively written to Senators and Representatives about various concerns on upcoming votes in the State Legislature. Model Congress also hopes to give support to the local Habitat For Humanity, and participate in the Massachusetts Learning Pike, which is an interactive learning program.

As the SADD members each piled into the lecture hall every Monday during activity, our brains scrambled to find a way to help drunk drivers stop drinking and driving. We held fundraisers, like selling SADD stickers and candy bars, and putting balloons on all the cars in an effort to remind the drivers not to drink and drive. This year we were also involved in a project where we sent out contracts to all the students in our school in an attempt to prevent students from going to parties and drinking. In this contract, parents were asked to sign also. By signing this contract, parents promised that if they ever became aware that their child/children were drinking, they would immediately go pick them up. We hoped that this would help kids to communicate with their families about drinking, and especially drinking and driving. Hopefully all of our efforts paid off this year, and many more students and parents became aware of the dangers of drinking and driving.

ACADEMIC DECATHALON

Academic Decathlon. The first thing you think of is a bunch of brains hunched over a table and pouring over a History of the Universe in 200 volumes with their two-inch thick glasses masking-taped together, right? Think again. Academic Decathlon (or Akadekkah for the enlightened) is a team of 9 (or more) students who spend two months learning information about 10 subjects including Social Studies, Economics, Fine Arts, and Math. They also prepare for a special team round known as the SuperQuiz (The topic this year was Documents of Freedom). So what, you say. Who wants to do that? Only people with a G.P.A. of 4.0 can participate. Wrong again! The team must contain AT LEAST 3 "C" students, as well as "B" and "A" students. Not only is the team a mixture of different abilities, the atmosphere is rather relaxed — during SuperQuiz, you'd almost think you were at a basketball game due to the noise and spirit. In fact, if the team does well enough, it could go on to States or even compete for the National title.

Although weekly meetings are held to prepare for the competition in November, coaches Mrs. Libbey and Mr. Fredette make it fun and have created an environment totally free of the normal classroom-type pressure. Now, if only we could get "Akadekkah" jackets . . .

National Honor Society

Membership in the National Honor Society is a goal which all top students strive to achieve. NHS members personify not only a dedicated commitment to academics, but a strong sense of character, leadership, and service as well! There is no question that membership in this prestigious organization is a tremendous honor.

Along with this honor, however, comes a great deal of responsibility as well! National Honor Society members must continue to give freely of themselves in commnity service projects. They are required to serve the people of Westborough for a minimum of thirteen hours over the course of junior and senior years. Many members tutor fellow students as well, through the NHS peer tutoring program. Yes, it is also the members of the National Honor Society who stand in the lobby each day selling Chug & Chew and who sell tickets at the basketball games! Being a member of the National Honor Society requires this commitment to serve our school and community.

So, on graduation day, when you see the NHS members wearing those lovely white mantles around their necks, keep in mind that the National Honor Society means more than just good grades. Membership means a dedication to character, leadership, scholarship, and service.

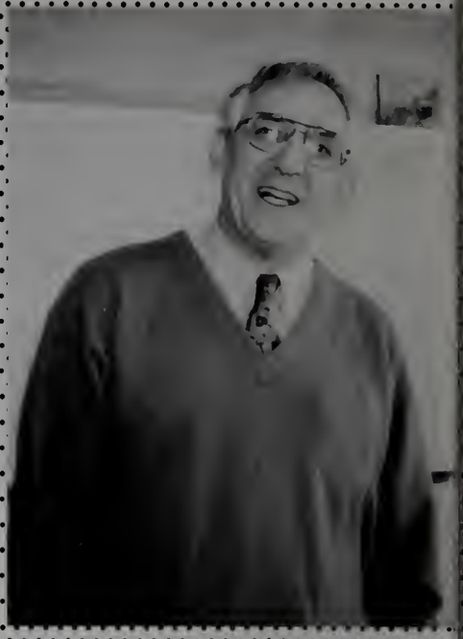
YEARBOOK



I quit! I really Quit! Boy, do I Quit! You think I'm kidding!

I hear the above regularly, if not always aloud, I see it in their tired and frustrated faces, their groans, their glibness and sometimes thinly veiled hostility. They are victims of the process called taking on responsibility, and these sixteen and seventeen year old's do just that: take on an enormous responsibility (one hundred and seventy-seven pages worth). But the "rub" as Hamlet would put it is that Nicole Goudas, Chris Hatherley, Jen Hinson and Meredith Knights, Chatanya Reddy, Archana Joshi, Julie Lacouture, Hilary Lloyd, Anika Parab, Tiffany Glasier, Sally Kircher, Julia Abrams, Sarah Hawkins, Julie Golden, Erin Heggerick, Meredith Gore, and still others are able to complete this project during their free time. Paradoxically, yearbook which is not a class is a true hands-on learning experience. I'd like to think in the years to follow that this phenomenal accomplishment will quicken the pulse and enliven the hearts and minds of all who have contributed.

The Editors

Hello, my name is Nicole Goudas and I am a yearbookaholic. I admit that for the past year I have not been able to eat, sleep or study without 98% of the time worrying about whether or not the yearbook would turn out alright I realize my obsession has caused almost everyone to turn against me; friends, co-workers, and acquaintances that I met on the street. They all quickly became bored with my incessant rambling of my latest yearbook crisis. Chrissie, Jen, and Mr. Kaplan all tried to help me realize that going home and having a life was perfectly acceptable, but I couldn't stop. It is for this reason that I hope everyone love's the book and overlooks those few minor flaws that even working until 9:30 p.m. couldn't help.

When I was asked to be the editor, I knew exactly what I was getting into, and I took the job anyway! "It's a learning experience," according to Mr. Kaplan. My question is what's the lesson? How to get an ulcer? or maybe the fastest way to a mental hospital. It was going to be different; We would be ready for deadlines, assignments would be done early, stress wouldn't exist, and everything would be laid-back. Yeah, right!

If you happen to catch me 7th period or perhaps after school, you may know how well my plan worked out. So what's a little stress, all I had to do was create something to please around 400 people, piece of cake.

I would like to thank everyone who helped out. Chrissie and I realize most normal people don't make yearbook their every thought, thanks for putting up with me. Jen — you'll make a good psychologist someday, I don't think I would have made it without you, and Meredith — you couldn't be in study 1st half of the year, you still seemed to understand my madness thanks for all you did. Lastly I would like to thank Mr. Kaplan. Perhaps the quiet girl who silently worked so calmly through each deadline last year is the same stressed-out, high-strung person she is today. Or could it be that you were wrong? You know, no matter how many times I quit, yearbook would always be everything to me. Thank you very much, without this opportunity I would never have gotten that scholarship to Westboro State.

To Julie, Sarah, Erin, and Julie — GOOD LUCK! GO TO AP BIO WHILE YOU STILL CAN!!!

Nicole Goudas

We've come quite a way since our long, dark walk for ice cream in the middle of nowhere, don't you think? Well, somehow we werent' killed and survived this whole year. After many early morning dates with a juice machine and spilling buckets of quarters on the cafeteria floor, I came to know the true meaning of work. This year just flew, and I guess I thought my days of selling ads, doing layouts and building my arm muscles carrying cases of juice (yeah, right) would merrily go on forever. I've seen and learned how to pull together and meeting deadlines (which sometimes isn't a pretty picture) and finding people to depend on to help you out. Nicole, I'll miss your "wandering aimlessly" dance you do 7th period as you laugh to yourself and make lists. Thanks for the help with the ads, for not taking the plunge over the balcony, and for being such a good friend! To Mr. Kaplan — from calmly responding to my screams in front of homeroom one morning to your advice on numerous things last year — Thank you. I don't know how you put up with us, but you do it somehow. Julie G., Tiffany, and HB crew — you took over the event, but you did a great job. The ball was beautiful, thanks for doing all the work that you did to make it a success. JL — your humor makes study a little lighter and helps me with chipmunks and mooses. To the yearbook homeroom — thanks, guys, for scraping yourselves off the floor and selling books all fall. We've had a very successful year and all in all it was a great experience good luck to next years editor — the only years editors — the only advice I can offer is to bring food to camp, and pray for snow days on deadlines!

Jennifer Hinson

Who ever thought that we'd actually finish this yearbook?! I thought that it would never get done. But . . . here it is! I guess this means that we don't get to stay in room 301 until 9 pm anymore. Oh Well! Hey Nicole, you really are a Yearbookaholic! Your psychotic dedication absolutely amazes me! — Thanks. You know, Mr. Kaplan — I'm sorry I always got mad at you. But, even you must admit, sometimes it was necessary!

Time really has flown by since our desolate walk down the street to Friendly's in the middle of nowhere! Where were we anyways? OH NO! Nicole, do you think it's Charlie?! Yearbook camp! — What a memory! — Yeah, Whatever!

Well, '94 — Here's your yearbook! We really hope that you like it! And, while you're flipping through the pages, please keep in mind that hours and hours and hours and hours and hours of time, effort, and very late nights were required to make this possible. So . . . please don't criticize it. We did our very best (and more)! Thanks!

I had a lot of fun in 7th period with Chat, Arch, and Nicole! You guys made all the work a lot more fun! Thanks Mr. Kaplan! Good luck next year Julie A., Erin, Sarah, and Julie G. You've got a tough act to follow!!!!

Christine Hatherley

Well the pictures are taken and finally turned in. No more last minute rushes to the one hour photo boutique, or trying to track down Dave Burgess, who always seems to be out to lunch. Mrs. Orff can finally relax, nobody from yearbook will go running into suspension yelling that they need money fast. And Hilton will be relieved that it's over, now they won't be responsible for the pictures that never seem to make it to the school. It's all over and somehow we survived. I want to thank everybody who helped take pictures but especially Julie Abrams, Archana Joshi, and Erin Heggerick. If it wasn't for the three of you there probably wouldn't be any pictures in this yearbook. Getting people to sit still for pictures and stop complaining is nearly impossible. This job requires unlimited patience. Unfortunately, most of our patience was used up by November. You did a great job, thanks for all the help. I'd also like to thank Mr. Kaplan for putting up with me and always keeping things under control. Special thanks to Chrissie, Nicole and Jen for understanding and being patient.

Good luck next year, your going to need it.

Meredith Knights

We have spent a lot of time putting this book together. Please try to overlook the minor errors.

FINE

ARTS

▼Katy Shirey (Lee) and Tory Temple (Bessie) talk while Felix Treptow (Marvin) sleeps in his room.

▼Ms. Leahy is hypnotized by the cast's performance.

▼▼Tory Temple (Bessie) and Matt Andreoli (Hank) share a quiet moment.

After the success of last year's student directed spring plays, Centerstage began this year with a positive outlook. We wasted no time getting started. Before we knew it, the fall play had been selected, along with its cast. This years play was "Marvin's Room" by Scott McPherson. The cast this year was small, including, Tory Temple '94, Matt Andreoli '95, Kelly Pendergast '94, Mark Mosiejczuk '94, Katy Shirey '95, Julie Lacouture '94, Adam Slater '96, Tracey Freitag '96, Nikki O'Neil '94, Brian Molter '94, and Felix Treptow '94. We had two wonderful performances due to the hard work of the cast, our awesome tech crew, and, of course, our fantastic directors, Ms. Leahy and Meredith Knights '94.

Within a week, Centerstage took on its next big project, the competition play. This year's play was "Childhood" by Thornton Wilder. The cast, Adam Slater '96, Kelly Pendergast '94, Julie Lacouture '94, Katy Shirey '95, and Sherri Martin '95, was very lucky to have Mrs. Morrel and Matt O'Neill '95 as directors. After two months of intense rehearsals, the cast packed up to go to competition. We braved the February snow, and traveled three hours to Dalton, Massachusetts. We had a strong performance in competition and Kelly Pendergast '94, Sherri Martin '95, and Adam Slater '96 won acting awards. But, sadly, we did not continue to the next round. The whole cast had a terrific time, and we will never forget all the interesting people (Monica!) from all those exotic places (Quaboag!)

Along with putting on numerous productions, Centerstage also expanded itself into new and exciting areas. This year an improvisational group was formed. The improv group has been highly successful, and we hope it will continue into the summer.

This year's Centerstage officers, Julie Lacouture '94, Kelly Pendergast '94, Matt O'Neill '95, Adam Slater '96, and Josh Rothman '95, have also been terrifc. We all worked hard to make this one of Centerstage's best years. Good luck next year!

To Mr. Kaplan —
thank you for putting up with us through this year! We hope you had as much fun as we did! (at times)
Love, Jen, Nicole, Chrissie

"It isn't wise to count your friends'
on a sunny day,
when the sky is blue and smiles
come by the bushel . . .
Instead, wait for a storm,
when the clouds roll in,
and the day grows dark,
and laughter's scarce.
whoever stands by you then deserves
the same 'friend'."

Good Luck Class of '94!
